Innis College serves as both an academic and social community for undergraduate students within the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto. We provide an intimate setting and informal home for about 2,200 undergraduate students. We value student involvement and leadership and are proud to be the only college at U of T to ensure parity-governance between students and staff/faculty. The Office of Student Life contributes to the student experience at Innis College, connecting resident and commuter students to leadership opportunities, co-curricular programming, mentorship, and support. The Office of Student Life oversees the operation of Innis Residence, providing a welcoming, engaged, and inclusive living-learning community for over three-hundred first and upper-year students.

Your Opportunity

Under the general direction of the Assistant Dean, Residence Life (ADRL), Residence Dons are para-professional staff who work collaboratively with residents, student leaders, professional staff, and campus partners to create a welcoming and inclusive living-learning community at Innis College. Paired with a teammate, each Don is assigned to a “house” community of approximately 40-60 students, where they play a vital role in fostering a supportive environment.

In this capacity, Residence Dons are tasked with a variety of responsibilities that contribute to the overall success of the residence community. These include:

- Resident Transition – support new students as they adjust to residence and university life. Encourage the social and academic integration of residents through regular and meaningful interactions, offering guidance, sharing relevant information, and making referrals to appropriate university resources.
- Community Building – foster a vibrant atmosphere where students feel a sense of belonging. Collaborate with student leaders and teammates to develop activities and events that enhance community engagement. Help students learn to resolve conflicts and communicate productively across differences.
- On-Call Support – participate in a rotating on-call schedule to address after-hours needs, including first aid, mental health concerns, facilities problems, behavioural issues, building evacuations, and other urgent matters.
- Programming – develop, facilitate, and evaluate events, programs, and workshops on topics such as inclusion and belonging, academic success, health and well-being, and self-management, among others.
- Administrative – completing various administrative tasks, such as attending mandatory training, documenting incidents, disseminating information, and conducting suite inspections.
